There is very clear and credible evidence that demonstrates males retain a performance advantage after testosterone suppression. It s simply idiotic to posit that males are not faster, bigger, stronger and larger

Illinois Second District Appellate Court have clearly lost their minds.

3 judge panel rejected the "argument" that sex is an immutable condition.

"Transgender women" (who are male) are female "just like the other women permitted to use the bathroom".

Men “identifying as women” (still waiting on an explanation for that one) are now free to use women’s restroom in Illinois workplaces, but if a woman is uncomfortable with this arrangement she can just go use the unisex (if there is one). How is this not a men’s rights movement?

Affirming Edits. the company that edits your photos "to help reflect a person's true self"

This can include changing your childhood photos so that any pinks turn into blues and long hair becomes short hair photographs to help them reflect a person's true self

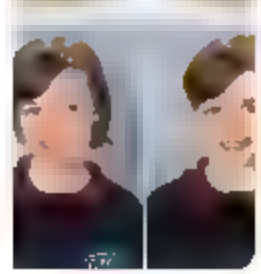
I know that there can be a lot of grief and pain surrounding childhood images They can be painful to see but also painful to put away so this is a way to save those cherished memories while also helping feelings of discomfort



It might not be beneficial for everyone but I think it's a really important service to have available especially for those that may suffer from dysphoria I have my own beautiful trans child myself so I understand the significance and complications that photos from the past can hold My background is in family photography and the arts I have multiple art degrees and awards including a PhD that focused on sincerity in visual media Being able to help people reflect their sincere self is my heartfelt pass on so I'm really excited to get this running on a more professional

You haven t presented one cogent argument. You ve merely tried to 'correct my tweets and insult me.

How is it fair for males to be in women s sports? Do you deny that they retain an advantage, or don't you care?

Dave The Happy Singer @HappySinger Aug 14

Both And the obvious counterargument is that you keep conflating "women" and "females" as if you think nobody reading will notice

Sesostris @Sesostris7 Aug 14

Oh I certainly hope people will notice If t s unclear at all, women are adult human females

And mean both', as in you don t agree that males retain an advantage and you don't care if they do?

Dave The Happy Singer @HappySinger Aug 14

Yes, that is what I meant

Sesostris @Sesostris7 3h

Dave, would it be ok with you, if in the future, women s sport was made up entirely of males?

We know there has been a lot of concern regarding images that had been attached to gates Festival Park.

Council staff removed them this morning.

We cannot find any evidence the images were commissioned or in any way approved by the council, or any of its arm's-length bodies.

Thanks for checking! Is this a council run park? Do you know who would have the authority to attach the installation apart from GCC. or could this be an authorised installation do you think?

I'm not fussed whether you agree with me or not. The state has no right to this level overreach for responsible parents I send my kids to school to learn about math, English, science & maybe another language. Not to start them on a pathway to lifelong medical patient status.

Fascinating that you believe what's going on w/the kids in this topic comes from something external. not internal.
This isn t about "overriding " No one's doing this TO children.
Until you remedy this belief, your efforts will be for naught. This isn t opinion
You speak bigotry.

A four year old child picks up cues about the world from adults and what they observe in their immediate surroundings. Yes it is about overriding parental authority I don't send my children to school for the state to reinforce Orwellian orthodoxy to 4 year olds

Absolutely ridiculous. At 18 months old my twins had epic tantys about outfits…after several horrid mornings of battles of wills, I realised this was what they meant by "pick your battles". Rule was minimum of knickers and shoes, don't care about the rest. They grew out of it.

Nope. Trans women, as people seeking gender reassignment are legally treated as their intended gender, and can only be excluded from single-sex facilities of their intended gender by virtue of special-case exemptions.

Perhaps this indicates that powers greater than the athlete(s) are now quietly gatekeeping # OC reputation.(?)

It's an interesting sequence of events, starting with Hubbard's sudden inability to lift a weight followed by immediate "retirement" from sport

I think that was part of the plan, Hubbard got to the event but by throwing it they can say "see, there's no performance advantage" to undermine our argument. Not mentioning he was old and mediocre to begin with.

I think our argument doesn't depend on the men having a performance advantage since even if they didn't, they still might steal a place at the competition or a medal once in a while. The only relevant point is that they are not women, and the events for women only.

Wel bring it up with the UK courts. The fact that they are conflated is because legally it is deemed that people should be treated n accordance with their gender presentation. Th s s also in order to not breach the European Convention on Human Rights.

Just received from Culloden Academy regarding the Unisex toilets

There are similar facilities in place at Alness Academy, Wick High School, Inverness Royal Academy and Charleston Academy These are in line with what is happening across Scotland ·· open plan / unisex facilities are generally being used in new-builds and refurbishments.

The new toilet cubicles and doors are full height and fully enclosed for improved security and privacy for pupils. The handwashing areas are open plan and can be easily supervised from the corridor This approach provides greater flexibility in how the school makes use of the facility either now or in the future It is widely considered that this model of toilet facility can contribute to positive pupil behaviour and reduce the potential for vandalism.

An Interim arrangement was put in place at the start of the new session until the S5/S6 toilets are completed, with the new toilet areas being unisex. Nope. Trans women, as people seeking gender reassignment are legally treated as their intended gender, and can only be excluded from single-sex facilities of their intended gender by virtue of special-case exemptions.

jA @jA05810016 · Aug 19

Only if they are seeking gender reassignment surgery is their characteristic protected under law many men aren't bothering to seek GRS anymore and just identifying as women. so under the law they aren't protected.

Aimee (not that Aimee) @Aimee359905?7 · Aug 19

Is "seeking" sufficient?

jA @jA05810016 · Aug 19

'Seeking' as in "the process whereby a transsexual person may apply for legal recognition of his or her acquired gender." The GR Panel considers all applications for a GRC. The Panel is made up of legal & medical members who assess whether the legal & medical criteria are met.

Question for @GladysB - what is the COVID protocol for a distraught 8 year old packing her bag to run away because she misses her school friends? Will she get a fine? Does she need a face mask? #SydneyLockdown

What s the alternative? It s hard but we must get through it to reopen safely.

One alternative could be that adults accept a m niscule increase n their own Covid risk and then come up with rules that don't psycholog cally traumatise children? Could that work?

I'd be very interested to know what studies prove women are sexually attracted to men who issue rape threats to women.
I've never heard anything liked this
And from personal experience I doubt entirely that it is true

The guidelines are that bodies built by testosterone (Y chromosomes, testes, male level testosterone, body receptive to male level testosterone) are not female and therefore excluded from women's sports.

Sports guidelines that we need are very simple: bodies built by testosterone (Y chromosomes, testes, male level testosterone, body receptive to male level testosterone) are not female & therefore excluded from women's sports. No one needs a law or science degree to figure it out.

Please enlighten us as to the aggression of women in this context? And not entirely sure how female sexuality fits in with women receiving abuse from TRAs for accepting material reality of biological sex?

Male take if I ever heard one 'm not sure f it's applicable in his field of evolutionary biology but men teaching "gender studies" to young women at tertiary level is what got us in to this mess. There is always a sex bias in how we nterpret what we learn/teach

John @astr0412 18h

It's actually evidence based science I teach to a class of mainly young women I don't make the sylibus up
Gender studies is not taught in medical school btw that s a humanities faculty

Angie Jones @angjones 18h

Yes I understand Gender Studies is a social science, and it's proponents would argue an evidence based one. An ideology reportedly being taught as fact in Med School here in Australia. I'm just pointing out we a protect sex based bias on to our understanding of any subject.

Thank you for speaking up for women. Australian Breastfeeding Association has released a guide to help men use a combination of synthetic female hormones & medication to induce excretions from their nipples to feed infants. Any other context it would be sexual abuse of an infant.

I did not initiate the Blackball debate on 30 August. I agreed to do it because I oppose Kathleen Stock's views on trans issues, and believe her opinions should not go unchallenged. Some people seem to think the title of the debate reflects my own views. It does not. I had planned to say that trans rights are not a matter for debate, they are not negotiable, and that there can be no common ground with transphobes. I believe that in a debate, Kathleen Stock's trans-exclusionary views can be challenged and that members of the public can be persuaded to reject her opinions and support trans rights. However, I agree that a trans speaker would be better suited than me, which is why I have chosen to withdraw from the debate. I apologise for making the mistake of previously agreeing to participate. I remain committed to supporting trans-inclusive feminism and will continue to defend both women's rights and trans rights, as I have done for over 30 years. I do not support misogyny, transphobia, or any other form of prejudice, and never will.

No. There cannot. Transactivists make demands on the basis of ever-shifting nebulous identity and male fetish, women have rights on the basis of millenia of exploitation, discrimination and oppression because of their female sexed body and reproductive burden.

Parents who do not instantly affirm their child's gender identity are monstered and alienated from their children, in Australia legislation will be enacted in February that criminalises anyone who does not instantly "affirm".

Are you actually not aware that this is happening? Many education department policies allow schools snd universities to transition children, as young as 4, without parental knowledge or consent. Children being transitioned against parental wishes etc.

So clearly you don't understand what the word "transition" means Referring to someone by their preferred name or gender identity in a setting such as a school is not transitioning that person.

If you can't back up your claims then you can't. No worries I assumed as much

My front lawn has a soccer goal post set up, my kids are always out there playing with the neighbourhood kids. I sit out there on the driveway and watch them, chatting to other neighbours as they walk their dogs.

No, if their names became public by whistleblowing on the "affirmation only" model for child/teen self identified gender dysphoria required by their governing bodies, they d lose their licenses.

David really needs to go do some research if he is truly unaware of the risk people, especially women, take in speaking out. I've spent years researching this issue, he could do us the courtesy of availing himself of the mountains of information available.

3:49 AM · 30 Aug 2021

If you are truly unaware that there is a problem with transitioning children then you need to go do some research and get out of your progressive echo chamber. There's a world of information out there, why are you being stubborn and refusing to do your own research?

David Nelson @davidnelsonOR · 10h

When did I ever say that there weren't problems with children transitioning? I didn't. All I asked was that provide information to back up your claims. Specifically, school policies that allow for a school to transition students. And the Australian legislation you mentioned.

Thea G-O @MTGIllustrates · 2h

So all you did was try to rope in Katherine to do a spot of unpaid research for you. Or maybe you were just nagging her for shits & giggles.
Weird. And annoying.

David Nelson @davidnelsonOR · 29m

Nope. She made claims which indicates that she has already done the research. I was simply asking her to provide the basis for her claims.

Thea G-O @MTGIllustrates · 27m

And she directed you to it.
If you're interested in anything apart from your own dreary kvetching, go read it.

David Nelson @davidnelsonORL 13h

How would any of that be relevant? You made claims, proof was asked for, you couldn't provide it. Pretty simple. I hope when you speak on TV or to the media you are better prepared. Otherwise you will simply look foolish.

David Nelson @davidnelsonORL 13h

Katherine is pretty sharp. She's done the work here

David Nelson @davidnelsonORL 1h

That may well be. But the fact remains that when asked to provide proof of her claims, she fails. If she's done the work then it should be quite simple to provide of her claims.

Aimee (not that Aimee) @Aimee35990577 34m

Scotland was the homeland of my grandmother who bravely left as a single 18yo 100 years ago to make a new life in Australia. She used to tell me to "wheesht" a lot when I was a kid. It's a word of happy memories. And now I am certain she'd yell #WomenWontWheesht beside me!

Giggle s response

Giggle suspended 'bigotry'

Hello Kickstarter Trust and Safety

Kickstarter takes a stance against bigotry in any form, and Giggle s kickstarter campaign promoting female spaces has been judged by Kickstarter as bigoted and suspended forthwith without any consultation with Giggle.

This deeply anti-intellectual, ill informed, intolerant and out of touch position you have taken as to conclude that only lacks, bigots and those stupid enough to be tricked by our presentation support female spaces.

Imagine having such a low opinion of (us) over half of the worlds population, those being female, and the vast majority of men who support the need for female spaces

Imagine having such a smug and unjustified sense of your own superiority

That you can be so blinded by a few 'activists' that you attribute their claims over the rights of women to have their own spaces, is a solid example of bigotry

What is particularly illuminating is your claim that providing a female space is the "perception of discrimination, subjugation and intolerance" without a hint of recognition of the hypocrisy involved in reaching such a position. The lack of self awareness is staggering.

You say you will appreciate our understanding, which is welcome, as this is our understanding of your actions

We will appreciate your understanding

Bigotry /ˈbɪɡ(ə)tɪ/ noun
obstinate or unreasonable attachment to a belief, opinion, or faction, in particular prejudice against a person or people on the basis of their membership of a particular group

Female spaces, female rights and voices are necessary and important.

Can I say this? What is this "wear it purple" stuff in addition to Pride month? Purple has always been the colour for Domestic Violence Awareness and to represent prevention of violence against women and girls (VAWG). Now it's LGBT? In August? More theft from women's rights?

Be brave everyone.

No one really believes in gender identity ideology. Once people un/s what it means in reality, they do not support it.

Why are there so few gender critical feminists under 50? Why do younger feminists reject anti-trans opinions? Why is this? Are they all brainwashed? Is this part of the big conspiracy? Time to engage the brains.

@leighsales gets it WRONG on the Sex Discrimination Act 1984 - it was brought on the basis of SEX not gender and not sexual identity.

No ssue on sexua orientation if it pertains to SEXUAL orientation (not gender as in VIC or QLD, which is a nonsense). GENDER IDENTITY is a nebulous, subjective concept that causes ACTUAL HARM to women and children and is in direct conflict with sex based law.

Why are there so few gender critical feminists under 50? Why do younger feminists reject anti-trans opinions? Why is this? Are they all brainwashed? Is this part of the big conspiracy? Time to engage the brains.

I am utterly appalled at the fetishisation and appropriation of this experience by the gender extremists. Abortion should be safe, accessible and affordable for all women, and while most have no regrets, it can be difficult and fraught nonetheless. This is abhorrent.

On balance, I regard this as a win for us because evidence for medical transition is acknowledged as disputed and contentious, that the area is one of "social uncertainty" that medical treatment is open to examination and criticism and should be subject to public debate

"Offence, distress and prejudice affecting gender diverse persons and their families" caused by the debate about their medical treatment is not sufficient to override public interest, so crucially claims of hurt or offence cannot stifle public debate on this issue

The headline should be the fact that the science is not settled, there is conflict and that the media is allowed to have the debate. Offence and distress about the debate DOES NOT override public interest. This is a serious win for the gender debate.

Transvestism is very common amongst sexual predators, even serial killers. So how are we women supposed to tell the difference between the ones who are a threat and the ones who aren't? Easier for women to exclude all males from spaces where we are vulnerable.

If you re curious about the spread of gender identity theory amongst midwives and antenata teachers do head over to this Facebook thread
Amazingly, arge numbers seem to now take issue with the word 'female' and believe fema e is a 'gender not a sex.

I believed that article (

As a trans woman I'm not interested in seeing "emancipation" that covers up any individual's wrong-doing, as if to feign some sort of uniform innocence and victimhood across the board

We're people like anyone else, capable of good and bad

5 142

Tom Swiss #EndPoliceBrutality @tom_swiss Sep 3

As a cis guy who's trying to be open minded, it looks to me as if there are "genuine" trans folks, and there are ill-intentioned people who want to draw others into their kink without consent who use trans rights as cover for that, to the detriment of the former

3 1 21

Unironic Ecoterrorist @yeats31415 Sep 3

There are some theories that gender dysphoria comes in discrete categories. childhood-presenting homosexual, adult male heterosexual autogynephilic (like spa guy), and adolescent female rapid-onset. Maybe true, maybe not. But has explanatory power

Tom Swiss #EndPoliceBrutality @tom_swiss Sep 3

Yes, I'm not sure if I want to endorse that specific breakdown or not. but it does seem to me (from people I know personally plus cases & literature I've read) that there are several distinct phenomena here, being constructed as one thing in a way that's sometimes problematic

Who is saying that the term women can't be used? In my area, we use "women and pregnant people" for inclusivity. Rarely do I see that women or mother is completely erased from the narrative. I've never heard a trans person say women shouldn't exist?

Its good people are starting to care more about the treatment of women in prisons. The only time I hear about them is through the lens of this argument about trans. They are otherwise forgotten and their crimes usually down to drugs and sex work Most shouldn t even be there

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 15h

Yes, this movement has educated me as to why many women are in prison. If they were men they would not be there crimes of theft and dishonesty (survival crimes), drugs and prostitution (trauma and exploitation by men). Unpaid fines or licence fees.

Miss Freda Wallace @Freda_Needles 15h

prison reform is hard to lobby for because, rightly victims of crime need to feel there is something being done to punish. In terms of the trans issue I find it to be a distraction that confuses some people It turns the argument very emotive and helps no vulnerable women at all

Australia has a crisis of sexual violence against girls and women, so with these statistics on sexual offenders the answer to Standland must be NO. Policies that prioritise gender identity over sex cause real, material harm to girls and women, including school girls.

I am very pleased that the report has addressed all those concerns and more. Our children will be protected from the teaching of controversial ideologies in NSW should this Bill be passed. It is critical that all NSW residents contact their MPs to express their support.

Council adjudication

The Press Council has considered a complaint from Dr Michelle Telfer, the Head of Department of Adolescent Medicine at the Royal Children s Hospital and Director of the Royal Children's Hospital Gender Service (RCHGS), concerning 45 articles published in The Australian which appeared online and some articles appeared in print The complainant expressed concern that the articles contained inaccurate information, were unfair and caused her and others considerable distress. The first article complained about was published on August 9, 2019 and the last on June 29, 2020 ,

The articles concerned the lication omitted that they were not medical specialists in transgender treatment Also, in a number of articles the RCHGS was described as "the Telfer Clinic" The Council considered that by repeatedly quoting the views of professionals from various fields of medicine and psychology that the treatment was experimental

Part of the problem is that the social contagion commonly associated with teenage girls has spread outwards and upwards to the whole society including and perhaps especially "the experts" who show precious little interest in doing a longitudinal study into this whole phenomenon.

Something that does not truly appear to be recognised under patriarchy. She's still wrong about more than two sexes, and in her suggestions that the bodies of males and females are less distinct than they really are. but she's not wrong in her goal of humanising us.

Lorelei @hatpinwoman 3h

Dworkin couldn't have foreseen how male people in the trans discussion would patronise, denigrate&in some cases terrorise us while seeking to remove our rights. That they would in fact replicate the very patriarchal behaviours she was hoping to deconstruct in those passages

1 2 35

Lorelei @hatpinwoman 3h

Or that one of them would write a book invoking her while berating other feminists, in order to suggest our fundamental difference to them should not be noticed or named.Mainly, it seems, because to do so disrupts the desires and the power of the very people who are imposing on us

1 1 33

Lorelei @hatpinwoman 3h

In the conclusion Shon wants to dismantle capitalism.I won t bore you

The last word of the book is courtesy of the last footnote That word is "female" &the sentence it belongs to is one where Shon says transwomen can be considered female

I neither enjoy nor accept that erasure

It is used as a sword to bully journalists into acquiescing to the newspeak of gender identity ideology. We are now finding that violent male criminals are being reported on as being "female" for example.

The question of notes, did she strip in an area of the changing room that doesn't normally have nudity? Many women's changing rooms have curtained/closed stalls where full changing is exclusively done. If that one did, and she stripped outside of one, that's an imposition.

The @Guardian JS editing the Butler interview is a good thing. It makes both Butler and the Guardian look bad. As @jo_bartosch put it in another context.

"but what happened next dug a grave for the integrity of the Guardian, and then pissed on it for good measure."

Isn't it just? My former employer received anonymous "character assassinations" emails a/b me. He realised women are under attack, my fight had merit, as a father of 3 girls I had his full support. Thanks transactivists - peak transing the world one ordinary person at a time!

I firmly believe so many older women are GC because we know if we were teenagers today we'd likely get captured by the gender cult. Instead of being left alone to be GNC girls, we'd be pushed into a world of bizarre sexual identities, medicalisation & surgery. This is me at 15.

You do realise every single definition of "gender identity" that has made it into law is based on SEX. GI is a nebulous, vague concept reliant on performance of sex stereotypes. Sex is based on biological sex. What does "trans" mean, what is the definition?

- A person who was born physically male decides to spend the rest of his life living as a woman. He declares his intention to his manager at work, who makes appropriate arrangements, and she then starts life at work and home as a woman. After discussion with her doctor and a Gender Identity Clinic, she starts hormone treatment and after several years she goes through gender reassignment surgery. She would have the protected characteristic of gender reassignment for the purposes of the Act.

You are really stretching there, it seems to me you aren't clear on what actually happened. You are imputing things James's conduct they have no factual or evidentiary basis. I'd be careful doing that.

My understanding is that James breached the safeguarding protocols Childline have in place to test his own 'therapies' on gender disverse children.

This massive breach of protocol and trust was enough to also be considered a break of the code of ethics at his university.

No, you asserted GC beliefs are akin to homophobia and sexism, then you diverted to introducing trans. so I asked you what it means You couldn't provide a legal definition. so there was a whole lot of back and forth while you tried to defend your original position

My point being how can you accuse someone of “transphobia” if you can’t define “trans”. If trans has no meaning in law, how can you equate “transphobia” with the protected belief of a gender critical position.

7 Gender reassignment

1 A person has the protected characteristic of gender reassignment if the person is proposing to undergo, is undergoing or has undergone a process (or part of a process) for the purpose of reassigning the person's sex by changing physiological or other attributes of sex.

2 A reference to a transsexual person is a reference to a person who has the protected characteristic of gender reassignment.

3 In relation to the protected characteristic of gender reassignment:

(a) a reference to a person who has a particular protected characteristic is a reference to a transsexual person;

(b) a reference to persons who share a protected characteristic is a reference to transsexual persons.

CTJAudio @cjonesaudio 18h

It's about trans issues trans is not identifying with the gender you were assigned at birth, gender is a social construct and isn't inherent or even really related to biology You guys HAVE to make it about biology because it s the only way to attempt to take the "pro-science"

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 18h

You do realise every single definition of "gender identity" that has made it into law is based on SEX GI is a nebulous, vague concept reliant on performance of sex stereotypes Sex is based on biological sex. What does "trans" mean, what is the definition?

CTJAudio @cjonesaudio 17h

That is incorrect. we know for a fact that gender is socially constructed. the ability to take poonts from sex doesn t mean it is based on sex, this s fallacious reasoning. I gave the definition of trans, trans is not identifying with the gender tyou were assigned at birth.

Good thing I didn't say assigned sex at birth, said gender, you idiots seem to keep conflating the two for ideological reasons but I'm fine calling it out when I see it

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves · 5h

No one discusses gender in the delivery room, no one assigns a gender in the delivery room. There are not two boxes to tick. We are not the ones conflating the two - never have, we know exactly what sex is, and gender, it is the TRAs who are doing so

It's legal because gender ideologues are the new sacred cow class, they are beyond reproach and once you utter "trans" or "gender" the normal rules cease to apply. This has been in play for decades in Australia. It's only going to get worse.

Small problem with this article in that there is no evidence for the efficacy of these treatments, that it definitively results in relief from depression, anxiety and and distress, rather there is evidence to show self harm and suicide ideation increases after transition.

process. and having been laid before Parliament in October 2010

3 The general tenor of the challenged paragraphs, though I shall touch on some of the detail shortly, is that service providers who treat men and women differently should treat transsexual people according to their acquired gender unless the exclusion or different treatment of transsexual people is a proportionate means of achieving a legitimate aim

4 The claimant argues that its proposed claim is founded not on shades of language in the Code of Practice, but on what it says are fundamental misstatements of law in the guidance set out in the relevant paragraphs.

5 The claimant has put forward a number of iterations of the alleged misstatement of the law, none of which is, in my judgment, arguable

6 First, the claimant's Grounds put forward the argument that if a separate or single-sex service (which together I will refer to as an "SSS") can be justified under Equality Act 2010 Schedule 3 paras. 26-27 then everyone of the opposite sex can lawfully be excluded or treated differently regardless of any transgender protected characteristic, unless the affected person has a gender recognition certificate ("GRC") under the Gender Recognition Act 2004. Those provisions of Schedule 3 (paras. 26 and 27) set out the circumstances in which discrimination on the grounds of sex can be justified whereas Schedule 3, para. 28 sets out the circumstances in which gender reassignment discrimination can be justified

The basis for these contentions in the claimant's grounds is its point that under s. 3 of the Equality Act 2010, which deals with direct gender reassignment discrimination, the relevant comparator for a transsexual woman, being a biological man (or "birth male")

The data cohort is out of date and limited. Huge explosion in numbers since 2017, research shows detransitioning for females about 4 years later, 6 years for male. DT also do not go back to the clinic that transitioned them, pls provide impartial and unbiased data set.

God I hope the parents win this challenge, only the courts can stop this lunacy
It's so interesting how such a large portion of the media here just do not want most Australians to know about this.

Also, they were Woke enough to use "they" pronouns for the girl, which I am sure the parents don't. Indeed they seem to have changed them when reporting what the parents said. The fact that they did that implies they aren't wholly resistant to GI, maybe in Oz they have to be?

Not just puberty their shoulders are formed differently giving them a strength advantage particularly in a punch Thus, "throw like a girl"

What is a suppression order, is this unique to Australia?

It's a gagging order No media, no news. All secrets. That how evil and ideology flourishes in Australia. Everything is silenced. Controlled, media blackouts, NDA's, settlements, hush money, silencing of health practitioners, silencing of journalists #endsilencing

Gillick Law asks was used in Keira Bell case. I believe Court held that a young person could not give underage, informed consent for transgender treatment because the long term risks are so poorly understood & the treatment experimental

Yet you failed to demonstrate how it's possible for someone to be attracted to sex assigned at birth when that is not a visible trait.

The LGBTQ+ is not a word, it is an invention of governmental agencies to weaponised fictitious human categories in a system of rewards for compliance and punishment for dissent. Of course the professor is queer, queer it's rewarded. homosexuality is punished.

Teachers can state their orientation, politics or religion to their class if they want to. But what Teachers shouldn't be doing is indoctrinating children with their own ideological belief systems about things. And I think children need better protection from this under the law.

It's also a great way to soften up potential victims for those forward thinking rapists.
Women are far less dangerous than men.
They're softening victims up psychologically

It is. And it is pretty ugly already. But as Orwell also told us, "The way to prevent this nightmare scenario is simple. Don't let it happen. It's up to you." So I sincerely hope those of us pushing back will be able at minimum to mitigate some of the ugliness.

It will take desisters and Detransitioners suing their HCPs to wind this back. Our politicians are too cowardly to legislate, and case law has its place, but it's not as robust as statutes obviously. I cannot fathom how anyone sees any of this as remotely acceptable.

Me too. I am offended on a visceral and primal level that the TRAs want to erase our sex. Women's relationships with our bodies are complicated, our reproductive lives complex....LARPing about performing sex stereotypes doesn't even come close to our experience. It's obscene.

It's not that affirmation is not supported the RANZCP position statement reads like a masterpiece of political neutrality. It (IMO) future-proofs them from accusations of endorsing a therapy approach which may (will!) be proven in time to be more partisan than evidence- 1/

don't speak doublespeak @DDoubleSpeak Sep 18

based They know that the socio-political climate means the affirmative approach is dominant right now so leave practitioners the option of following it but are at least acknowledging the paucity of evidence to support it and the potential that history may not look back 2/

If you're suggesting that access to healthcare needs to be improved such that those in need of care are better able to receive it, then I fully agree. But I imagine that that's not what you're suggesting, since that would entail improved access to healthcare for trans persons.

LGBT+ Labour tota ly condemns the abuse and physical threats Rosie Duffield has faced.

We have made clear our politica disagreements with Rosie on policy affecting trans people, but political disagreement should never result in abuse or physical threats LGBT+ Labour has never conducted itself n this way and would never encourage anyone else to It is utterly unacceptable.

Women in politics are subject to appalling levels of abuse and we are clear it has no place in our party or society

There is nothing wrong with this child that time and maturity cannot help.

Felix @FelixChaser · Sep 15

There is nothing wrong with a child exploring their gender and coming to the realisation that they are gender diverse in some way. Forcing them to comport to your notion of how they "should" be would be more along the lines of self alienation

Right, quick thread.
Its good that the guidelines are delayed, because they simply haven't got their heads around this. 1/

Rosie Duffield is perfectly entitled to her view that trans people should have the protections they have had for years, enshrined in the Equality Act, taken from them. But the fact she does so while a member of a supposedly progressive party is an embarrassment to Keir Starmer

Ash Sarkar @AyoCaesar Sep 20

The debate on trans rights - bathrooms, changing rooms, refuges - is not about whether transgender people should get anything new. It is about whether they should have rights which are currently protected in law stripped from them. That's the debate

What on earth? Doctor, if sex is a continuum, please explain how babies are made. Can a female person procreate with a female-ish person to make a baby? Male and male-ish? Is that how it works?

It's a potential PR disaster for the IOC if the people who are publicly claiming they are the experts that consulted to the IOC are the actual "experts" advising this policy. The IOC is now aware of this.

ACON have helpfully drafted a "surgical readiness letter" to refer the child or adolescent to a surgeon.

[Qualifications
Type of practice]
Medicare Provider

To Whom
Re [Patient Name]

You can find and replace the following terms: [Patient Name] [Patient First Name] [Doctor Name] & [Procedure Name]

You will need to replace the placeholder in the letter to explain why [Patient] will the surgical option proposed e.g. be the best and [Patient] with the surgical assistance proposed to be the best choice.

Thank you for referring [Patient Name] who is newly presentable to [Practice Name] for their gender dysphoria.

[Patient First Name] was assessed on [DATE]

[describe gender identity, previous hospital assessment

She/he/they [physical presentation, weight, etc.

Specifics re medical and mental health concerns and their control]

[Patient First Name] has a strong understanding of the nature, purpose and implications of [Procedure Name], including the requirements, timeframe and side effects and risks involved.

[Additional insights if relevant and irrevocable

Explain that [Practice] including [who] to make the decision

[additional points:
sufficient maturity and mentally to make the decision
shares all criteria outlined in WPATH Standards of Care version

[Patient First Name] has demonstrated capacity to make an informed decision regarding [Procedure Name]. [Patient] fulfils the World Health Organisation International Classification of Diseases ICD- criteria for Gender Incongruence in adolescence and adulthood.

[Practice] has a referral link with [Name] Hospital. [Name] experienced gender clinic. [Practice] recommends

[Practice] has a process to make additional decisions as described above

[Practice] is legally unable/unwilling to make [Patient] legally emancipated for the purposes of medical decisions

A [Practice] psychologist and mental health assessment is necessary annually

I support [Patient Name]'s decision to undergo [Procedure Name] and believe that it is in [Patient]'s best interest. This procedure is a medical necessity

Genuine question to which I don't know the answer and am not trying to make a hidden point with... are gender critical campaigners actively looking to change the Equality Act or some other legislation or are they trying to prevent future changes to the law?

Appreciate there will be different subsets within the GC movement but generally speaking what's the primary campaigning goal in legislative terms?

Gender identity protection provisions removed from statutes - they are unworkable, nebulous, vague & conflict with "sex". People who are GNC are protected under the "sex" category b/c they cannot be discriminated against for failing to fulfil the stereotypes assigned to their sex

Change their "SEX" not "gender"."gender" is factually untrue, it is SEX on birth certificate. Changing the "regressive and oppressive sex stereotypes assigned to me due to my immutable, objective, observable sex" on cardinal identification documents sounds stupid. Because it is.

Both female and trans athletes are socially disadvantaged, however, inclusion necessitates females are not also physica ly disadvantaged. Justice enta s the recognition of females as equa mora agents, also and at the same time with distinctly female sexed bodies. 10/

Jon Pike @runthinkwrite Sep 21
t arises from Budgett s acceptance of the claim from Joanna Harper that competition s meaningful if there is a less than 15% advantage
But the task is not to work out whether an advantage is disproportionate or nsurmountable but whether t is fair (ii)
2 14 196
Jon Pike @runthinkwrite Sep 21
Fairness s a property of processes, not (d rectly) of outcomes Maybe, if they hadn t thrown the competition, LH might have f nished 8th at Tokyo And maybe this could be said to show that their advantage was not 'disproportionate or ' nsurmountable (i)
3 11 157
Jon Pike @runthinkwrite Sep 21
But that s not the point. LH s advantage was unfair And we know this because fair processes in women s sport are supposed to exclude male advantage: that s the point of the category (iv)
1 21 228
Jon Pike @runthinkwrite Sep 21
So the Science and Med cine Comm ss on of the IOC should not waste its time deciding whether a 15% or a 10% or a 5% advantage is 'disproportionate' or ' nsurmountable It should recognise that the task of deciding this is arbitrary and absurd (v)

But we'd better get used to it @NetballAust implemented @PrideinSportAU @sportaustralia guidelines that expect everyone to pretend sex does not exist, that sex differences do not matter and that a man's self-declared special identity is the most important thing of all.

The revelations in the Gender GP inquiry are exposing the rot in the foundations of this sinister experiment of turning GNC children into medico-pharma profit centres for life. Webberley is doing so much damage to her cause, its saving us the trouble.

It still blows my mind they are so casual about “puberty blockers”, acting as if it’s the Pill. We are talking about putting children in a state of suspended animation, arrested development. Robbing them of the opportunity to mature into the adults they are destined to be.

This page provides a brief summary of a gender affirming hysterectomy and offers guidance to help you support your trans patients if they undergo this surgical intervention.

Hysterectomies are typically sought by trans people who were presumed female at birth (PFAB), including men and non-binary people, to stop menstruation, remove any possibility of pregnancy, or for other health issues. Not all trans people

My daughter's netball team plays teams with boys. Even at a non-prof level, the unfairness is clear. Girls have to choose between playing with & against boys or not at all. My daughter is considering leaving netball next year. I'm hoping to keep her in but I'm worried & angry.

Angie @maydenaussie 11h

@karlstefanovic sat on his morning tv program happily calling this inclusive !!
How is this effing inclusive Karl when boys will always be faster/stronger?
Removing female rights to have their own sports is the new oppression and you re championing it. Shame on you!!

No, that's a rhetorical one. Obviously the issue is informed consent.

3 19

Grace Hawthorn @grace_hawthorn Sep 20

ok then, so if you do, in fact, understand informed consent, why is it so incredibly difficult for you to understand that women don't want male-bodied people in our intimate public spaces? That we do not consent, bec we are informed. This is not a rhetorical question

2 11 355

Laurie Penny @PennyRed Sep 20

Here's one that's not rhetorical. Is possible discomfort alone sufficient justification to exclude someone from a shared public space? I'm not talking about likelihood of assault. I'm talking about discomfort. 'I don't want to share space with that person because they are trans'

51 1 24

Professor Confessor Holycrap @VenVidVici Sep 20

But equally, it could be said that someone not wanting to use a particular space because it doesn't validate their gender identity is a "discomfort" type of justification, isn't it?

There needs to be balance, doesn't there?

But their discomfort is based on their subjective feelings, women's discomfort is based on millenia of being raped, beaten, murdered and exploited by members of the group we seek to exclude.

I don t understand why people like you support disingenuous efforts that are cruel to trans kids. It makes me sick thinking how hurtful TERFs are, just because of their own insecurities.

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 1h

I speak to Detrans people, I speak to trans people. Medically transitioning children is the greatest medical scandal of our time I have no issue whatsoever with GNC kids, or LGB have LGB people in my family, as employees, as close friends and acquaintances.

Amongst those your speak to do you speak to credible medical professionals like Dr Michelle Telfer?

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 14m

No I do not speak to her I read what she writes and watch her when she speaks I find it profoundly disturbing that she thinks PBs are reversible and that she believes herself able to change a child's sex. Here is a critique of her AUSPATH guidelines ozedsfv.group/wp-content/up

One of the most startling findings out of Bell Tavistock decision was that there is a paucity of data, research, evidence and follow up. It's why the Cass report has been commissioned. It's why the NHS, Sweden and Finland are all pulling back. Why are doubling down in Oz?

points or a place in any state finals. Effectively a series of exhibition games. But the obsession with inclusivity meant girls were treated unfairly in their own sport. Losing was entirely predictable

SkyeAster @skye_aster · 4h

Perhaps for this event that's right. But at the end of the day, the girls who lost can now go on and have a successful semi-professional career whilst the boys can go take up another sport if they want to earn money playing a game

Satsuma @Satsuma04523379 · 2h

Or the girls will be put off the sport because they were treated badly and robbed of their opportunity to win their competition. But that's ok because the boys got the chance to play.

If these girls are put of competing because they had to play someone bigger and stronger, then they won't be cut out for making it any further

Feminism is about fighting for the rights of all women, even those you do not like. He needs to read some Dworkin. And men can't be feminists, allies sure, but not feminists.
Feminism is a political practice of fighting male supremacy on behalf of women as a class, including all the women you don't like, including all the women you don't want to be around, including all the women who use to be your best friends whom you don't want anything to do with any more. It doesn't matter who the individual women are.

Bodies with vaginas? Am I honestly reading this from one of the most supposedly prestigious medical journals in the world?

It may be prestigious but they've always been after the likes

Also they probably wanted to be inclusive of trans and non-binary people It's ended up being just creepy

Removing the word "woman" is not inclusive. It is exclusionary of half the population. The misogyny of all this is revolting

I know what a woman is. Why are women oppressed?

Michael Barnett @mikeybear 10h
If you know what a woman is then why ask? Woman are oppressed because some people, mainly men, won't treat them as equals. I acknowledge my privilege as a cisgender man and stand up for breaking down barriers for all women, irrespective of their gender identity

Andreia Nobre @ariana_erbon 8h
Women are oppressed because men exploit women's reproductive labour. No males are kidnapped for surrogacy. Females are kidnapped and raped unt pregnant for surrogacy. Males do not suffer female genital mutilation. Females do. Males do not suffer obstetric violence. Females do

Michael Barnett @mikeybear 8h
I like that you've managed to deflect a conversation about cisgender women who are intolerant of transgender women into one about men who oppress women. I still maintain Katherine Deves is a first class TERF and that she won't own up to her mistakes.

A double mastectomy s an irreversible surgery.

If it doesn't concern you that 15 year old gender non-conforming girls (who would stat stically mature into adult lesbians) are having their breasts removed, you need to take a ong hard look in the mirror and ask yourself why.

I think the best they can do is say you said "children" and this says "age of majority" (even though we know surgeries are occurring on children) therefore you are a liar, a charlatan, burn the witch and you can't admit a mistake. It's pathetic.

Peter Really sex s not a spectrum There are two kinds of sex cells in all mammals- smal motile ones (sperm) and large immotile ones (ova). There are no intermediate types No spectrum.

Maya Forstater @MForstater 12h

There are two types of bodies those developed to produce ova (female bodies) & those developed to produce sperm (male bodies) There is no spectrum of other ways of reproducing than by combination of egg & sperm. People who are infertile males or females are not on a spectrum.

Not good enough. Women have been historically marginalised, discriminated against, brutalised, harmed and excluded from health care, which continues to this day. This failed attempt to be "inclusive" excluded and betrayed women and girls.

With any discipline, there is a base understanding that one must have to actually participate within that field. Understanding sex in medicine isn't an assumption but a baseline of understanding, only shifting from to meet the needs of patients, adjusting when necessary

I would say that understanding there are two sexes - males and females, is likely a base level of understanding to provide health care. Unless, of course, one is willing to risk significant medical malpractice.

Why is an Australian submitting on New Zealand law?

Katherine Deves @katherine deves 2h

They invited overseas contributors other submitters were from UK, Canada, USA etc. They were interested to know how such legislation has affected other jurisdictions.

T. Raygun @Suborb ta Ray 1h

They clearly didn't invite you because you were talking in a public submissions session anyone can access People who are invited go into private committee meetings.

Yes, I did tick the box to make an oral presentation and then I received an invitation. The process is not a secret.

Is the best argument you have against my submission "you are not a Kiwi citizen" and quibbles about procedure?

Why not engage with the substance of what I said?

Now that Austra.ia has confirmed that a particular form of child abuse is legal there, what is to prevent another form of child abuse paedoph la from being legalised there? The country has set a precedent for abuse to be interpreted as care.

Children are being taken from mothers & handed over to abusive males if he alleges “parental alienation” in family court disputes. Children do not want to go with the men who abuse them & their mothers, but this is weaponised against mothers & the women lose all parental rights.

It's not an invitation everyone who checks that gets to speak. You didn't get invited you asked.

Your whole thing was just sexist dribble about how men are dangerous and trans men should have more rights than trans woman. At least you are more coherent than the senile boomers.

T. Raygun @Suburb ta Ray 1h

Personally I think segregation in any form is bad. Oh and to change your sex on your birth certificate you need to make a legal declaration. Lying about being a woman on it is the same as lying under oath. You can get fined and go to jail. It's essentially fraud

T. Raygun @Suburb ta Ray 1h

Oh and we already have trans women in woman's spaces as ID documents go by self ID. So this doesn't make it easier or harder to access bathrooms and whatnot. Not that anyone is checking ID at the door

And it is very much not only Anglo children being captured, we are a multicultural society (almost half of all Australians have at least one parent born overseas), and Indigenous girls are being targeted in one particular region by male gender zealots.

"The grief of parents" -- ⤵️ letter in today's @australian about Australia's first case of a transgender-identifying minor being taking into care by protection authorities. #GenderClinics

theaustralian.com.au/nation/supreme …

I am a member of numerous support groups for parents of children and young adults who have declared a transgender identity. In all these cases the declaration of a transgender identity has come completely out of the blue, giving parents good reason to be sceptical of their child's sudden ideation. As parents who have raised and nurtured these young people, we are being increasingly marginalised and undermined by teachers, medical professionals and now the courts.

Our scepticism and calls for caution, due to the irreversible nature of hormonal and surgical interventions, are derided by health professionals who seem to have no qualms about turning these young people against their "unsupportive" parents. Families are being torn apart with the immediate "affirmation" of a nebulous identity by clinicians.

Many parents know their children have been groomed online. Many children come from backgrounds of trauma, such as family separation, bullying or sexual assault. Many are on the autism spectrum. All that parents want is caution, exploratory therapy and a return to the medical ethos of "Do no harm".

The mental health of these parents is overlooked. They are struggling. Their collective grief is insurmountable. Having our children taken away from us ("Court dismisses appeal in transgender teen removal case", 29/9) is not the solution. Too many families have already been destroyed by this phenomenon.

What will it take for our health officials to heed the calls of these distressed

The Progress and Trans flags draped all over the school are sinister. Zealots always target the youth - it's played out like this in fascist and dictator states everywhere, people just can't see it because it's a religion without a god.

On this National Day for Truth and Reconciliation, I wonder why our government is doing nothing about Wallace Wong ... a psychologist who is transitioning over 500 children in state care.

52% of Canadian children in state care are indigenous

> Barbara Kay @BarbaraBKay
> #NationalDayforTruthandReconciliation Today I will reflect on the fact that 42% of women prison inmates are Indigenous, yet forced to live alongside natal male rapists bc, thanks to @JustinTrudeau, alleged trans rights trump actual women's sex-based Charter rights rights

"Love them as they are." ⬇️Letter in today's @australian in response to this news report on Australia's first known case of a trans-identifying child being removed from parents -- theaustralian.com.au/nation/supreme …

Love them as they are

With regard to the sudden expansion of gender-changing, particularly among girls (Letters, 30.9) I would ask which young girl, suddenly confronted with the discomforts of menstruation and having to wear a constriction around her chest does not envy the relative freedom of her brothers? Then someone tells her yes, she can be a boy if she wants to be.

No, what they need at this time is support and an assurance that they are still loved and cared for, not to be alienated from parents and family.

Amidst the current manufactured moral panic around trans people, it's important that governing bodies' policies are based on solid evidence about the reality of sport & inclusion.

The new guidance fails to properly reflect that safe, fair trans inclusion in sport already exists

Sport plays an important role in giving people pride, and a sense of community and belonging.

Sport should be a safe haven for trans people, just as much as it is for anyone else. The new guidance destabilises the progress that has already been made for trans inclusion.

The new guidance on trans inclusion in sport, released by the Sports Councils Equality Group, makes some harmful assumptions.

It assumes that there is an inherent conflict between inclusion, fairness and safety. In reality, the three go hand in hand.

Amidst the current manufactured moral panic around trans people, it's important that governing bodies' policies are based on solid evidence about the reality of sport & inclusion.

The new guidance fails to properly reflect that safe, fair trans inclusion in sport already exists.

Stonewall @stonewall_uk · 11s

The truth is that trans women are already participating in sports, without any evidence of unfair advantages or safety risks

The guidance fails to properly reflect that in its data, and serves only to create

No, it's a balancing act & there is a hierarchy. World Rugby decided safety is paramount because people die & are badly injured. Inclusion of men means the sacrifice of fair competition and safety for women & girls. You can't have it all ways. That's what this paper addresses.

Parents and teachers affected by gender identity ideology are invited to share their stories.

Let's drag this into the light, and protect our children from this dangerous and extreme ideology.

Gender identity ideology has no place in Australian schools.

No, we should assume that the reason men are excluded from women's sports remains despite declaring a special identity until they produce robust, credible, peer-reviews, verifiable data that demonstrates it's not unfair or unsafe or otherwise detrimental to women if they play.

Please provide the statutory reference for “inclusion” in relation to sport. CEDAW covers inclusion for FEMALES in sport. There is a lot of litigation around sports injuries so I’m surprised sports authorities willingly ignore the known risk to women when competing with men.

I wish! No - to clarify, the combination of Veuve, and McDonalds fries is the best if they are really hot and fresh. The salt and fat cut through the acidity of the wine. Grab them in drive-thru then go have picnic.

And yet, @otago gave the New Zealand Sportswoman of the Year Award to a middle-aged mediocre bloke with a politically connected father

Can someone please explain how women are not being subjected to the most regressive, oppressive, exclusionary ideology of our lifetime?

Mike Symonds @symmo1969 16m

That s not how my tweet started, there s one before that, which was tweeted much earlier. The one which refers to TERFS was on account of some tweeters flying in guns-a-blazing. You ve decided to respond as if personally affronted despite no prior contact. Hence you re blocked

Mike Symonds @symmo1969 14m

If you re not a trans exclusionary radical feminist, you re not going to be labelled a TERF. If you don't consider yourself a TERF, then the labe doesn t apply to you & so you don't need to respond as if it does. It s fairly straight forward

That you have repackaged those arguments is just laughable.

Thanks for outing yourself so quickly.

Additionally, rate of suicide after 10 years is nearly 20 times higher than the rest of the population. Longitudinal outcomes are not good for mortality, incarceration, MH. The evidence does not show lack of support is the cause, in fact, we don't know. Perhaps we should?

A lot of us are LGB folks. Pre-LGB folks having rights, and getting us those rights. We know what flim-flam looks like, and this is rampant individualism appeasing adult fetishes, capitalism, and everything but looking out for each other. Don't try and sell me a pup.

Also, the misogyny is off the charts. The Backlash against women, and lesbians in particular, has found its home in this lesbian erasing movement. I despair for the young women of today being told if they are not hyper-feminine they are not females, but something else entirely.

No, when parents don't respect a child's bodily autonomy it's abuse. When parents refuse medical treatment for their children it's abuse. Why are you so keen to defend parents who are refusing life saving medical treatment for their children?

Children can not consent to major life decisions, especially medical ones. This is a safeguarding issue

I agree it is a safeguarding issue parents do not have the right to abuse their children by withholding treatment from them. Thankfully the Australian courts agree.

[redacted]
Private and Confidential

By email: [redacted]

Dear [redacted]

Action taken in relation to Ms Tania Marshall after assessment

I refer to our previous correspondence in relation to the assessment of the notification about Ms Tania Marshall (Ms Marshall).

Issues

As you are aware, the issues identified were:

1. Conduct – Other issue: Disreputable Conduct

   Whether Ms Tania Marshall engaged in disreputable conduct by posting on social media statements and non-evidence based information that reflect on her ability to practise as a psychologist and to reflect negatively on the profession or discipline of Psychology.

2. Conduct – Other issue: Disreputable Conduct

   Whether Ms Tania Marshall engaged in disreputable conduct by behaving in a manner [redacted] people by engaging in conduct that demeans them as persons or harasses them.

Decision

On 5 September 2019, the Psychology Board of Australia (the Board) decided that Ms Marshall's professional conduct is unsatisfactory. The Board decided to take relevant action under the Health Practitioner Regulation National Law (the National Law) and imposed conditions on Ms Marshall's registration.

Reasons

1. The Board noted the notification and information submitted by Miss Hannah Belcher dated 21 October 2018.
2. Having considered the information before it, as provided by Miss Belcher, the Board noted:
   a. Ms Marshall's activity on Twitter between July and October 2018 disseminated information in relation to 'Rapid Onset Gender Dysphoria' which is not a recognised diagnosis.
   b. Ms Marshall proceeded to message Ms Belcher privately, via Facebook, making inappropriate demands and threats of Ms Belcher, including threatening to complain to police about Ms Belcher's behaviour and threatening to contact Ms Belcher's

I grew up with the Christian Right, I know all their tricks. Their goal is male supremacy, no matter who they have to get in bed with. Cross-dressing & male homo-eroticism is right up their alley. Jenner/Pritzker/et al are all in their boys club. Women always in the crosshairs.

"Gender expansive"? Do they think they invented transcending sex-based stereotypes? Do any of them have a clue about history? E.g. in Louis XIV's court, men wore high heels, stockings, masses of curled hair, flounces and makeup. They are not the trendsetters they think they are.

Hi Katherine as a woman who plays sport I would like to clarify you definitely don't speak for me or indeed the rest of any of the sports teams I have played with

As a mother of girls also would like to say my kids know and love the transgender people in their lives and will happily play sports with whoever wants to play

I will note that David is bound by the policy of the Greens which is inclusive and recognises trans and gender diverse people as valued members of our community who need support and protection from hateful attacks

It is alarming and disappointing that our politicians and their staffers think so little of the rights and needs of girls and women. NSW & Australian legislation allows us to exclude men and boys from our sports competitions, even if they have a special self-declared identity.

It is not unlawful to do so, it is not hateful or unkind to say so. What is hateful, unlawful and unkind is to destroy women's sports in favour of an ideology most people do not want imposed on them once they understand the cost to children and women. @SWS_australasia

Unfortunately, this is too late for many Australian children, and their families, who have been irreversibly harmed with lives interrupted and destroyed.

There will be litigation to compensate those harmed by doctors, surgeons and gender clinics.

It remains only to write down the names of all those who supported the castration of children and their removal from families against the will of the parents and logics. Write down and remember, let them be responsible.

If the parents were to appeal the WASC 28 Sept decision it would be to the Australian High Court, and they have to seek leave (permission) first. Appellate courts decide on errors of law, only consider new evidence or witnesses in exceptional circumstances.

There is a view (that I agree with) that once the medical insurers have to start making payouts they will demand change and start refusing to insure. Such litigation will also shine a light on the paucity and poor quality of evidence. Likely will be $ that stops this.

Thank you for being brave enough to stand up to the progressive wokescolds and bullies. In Australia, "woman" has been redefined to include anyone who identifies as one, it is heartening to see that not everyone believes women should sacrifice themselves.

If your argument is that you are sti offering nclusive services, why is that not clear? Why is there not a clear DEI statement, information spec fically for trans people accessing your services, a comm tment to supporting queer rights, etc?

Then why isn t that explicit and front and centre? I agree, the world shouldn t have to revolve around gender But if you are pub ca.ly stating that you offer nclusive services. I think that should be clear on your website. (Also, BPAS offers services for men.,

Make a complaint to HR about sexual harassment. Compare that to walking into the office and someone has one of those Page 3 girl calendars hanging in their cubicle - they would be told to remove it. Same thing.

I keep thinking about the horrendous suffering caused by the anti-woman bullying experienced by Kathleen Stock and others. It creates a catch-22: they WANT you to suffer, so when you explain publicly that you have suffered, they're delighted. But if you don't, it's easy for 1/2

Cancel culture is a slippery slope. Freedoms of speech, religion and belief, including freedom from those things, are fundamental to a functioning democracy. Nothing good comes when these are suppressed - we need more debate and more conservation, even those with whom we disagree

Nobody is denying Perrottet the right and freedom to believe whatever he likes But likewise, those of us against extremist religious fundamentalism in public life are entitled to the freedom to be utterly creeped out and repulsed by him, and to say so

Roxane Exogamy-ist @brgadam 50m

You can be as repulsed as you like by crazy stuff a religious person says, but to conclude the person is repulsive crosses a line into dehumanisation Bad things happen when groups of people think another group of people are repulsive

whatshername @UghSoJnorginal 5m

Ok, and freedom of thought and speech dictate that I'm allowed to think whatever I like about a person, as long as I don't harm or defame them If I find someone's values and beliefs repellent, it's semantics if it's them as a person or everything they stand for I find repulsive

Is it? A radio show is 1 forum in a vast media landscape. Presenters have wide scope to decide who they want on their show & why. If they choose to "ban" someone for capricious reasons people that disagree can vote with their feet and not listen. The free market in action.

whatshername @UghSoJnorginal 4h

If enough people tune out, ratings fall and the show is cancelled. Commercial radio is famously cutthroat like that. But nobody (including a politician) is owed airtime on a privately owned forum which this radio station is. It's more complex with ABC and SBS as they're public

It is a dangerous position to take to ban the most powerful politician in the state from speaking. You may not agree with what he has to say, but silencing someone on that basis is a slippery slope and inimical to democracy.

Again, please define "cancelled" for this purpose. If you mean who should he decline to have on his show - whoever he likes, for any reason he likes, no matter how stupid or illogical. If ppl disagree they won't listen to and/or his bosses will fire him. That's commercial radio!

ABC and SBS are hardly impartial, they form particular views on a great many issues and brook no criticism

whatshername @UghSoJnorginal 5h

And yes I agree with you that ABC and SBS are not impartial, but as public broadcasters paid for with taxpayers' money, they do actually have an obligation to be impartial and to give airtime in a way that's objectively "fair" A private radio station or show has no such duty.

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 1h

And who do you think should be cancelled next? Who is the next person that Sandilands doesn't agree with?

whatshername @UghSoJnorginal 23m

Again please define "cancelled" for this purpose If you mean who should he decline to have on his show whoever he likes, for any reason he likes, no matter how stupid or illogical If ppl disagree they won't listen to and/or his bosses will fire him. That's commercial radio!

No, you answer my questions please - who else should be cancelled? Who will be next? I think you are completely missing the point here, cancelling people you don't agree with is the essence of cancel culture. Why does Sandilands want to deplatform Perrottet?

whatshername @UghSoJnorginal 19m

If you want me to answer you please define your terms. What do you mean, specifically by "cancelled"? Nobody has "cancelled" Perrottet. a trashy commercial radio shock jock has publicly stated he won't have him on his radio show, that's all. s that your defn of cancellation?

whatshername @UghSoJnorginal 16m

You can't just keep repeating "cancelled" w/out specifying what you mean by that in this instance Nobody has threatened Perrottet, nobody has fired him from his job or launched a lynch mob against him One radio presenter has declined to have him on his show. That's literally it

A radio shock jock from one of the top commercial stations in the city has banned the most powerful politician in our state due to his personal religious beliefs. If you can't see there is a problem with that, then I can't help you.

NO! My 5 year old daughter regularly tells me she is a boy/wants to be a boy - you know why? She plays rugby, likes short hair, doesn't want babies. She is a child. Her preferences and demands do NOT mean she has a "gender identity". Yet if I was "woke" she'd be "transgender"

I have spoken with a young Australian Detransitioner she has been left with distress, disfigured breasts and other chest injuries due to breast binding. No Medicare funding for her breasts to be reconstructed. @abcnews promotes this as a good thing?

Nearly half of all Australians have one parent born overseas. Asking someone about their heritage is not discriminatory, it's a human curiosity and showing interest in someone's life. Perhaps use it as an opportunity to share your experience & life story rather than be offended.

Bless. Supremely arrogant young male believes his generation is the first to revolt against regressive sex stereotypes.

Also believes that there are no safeguarding issues and no harm done when any men can enter protected spaces for women and children.

I have no doubt these people would imagine themselves to be part of the French Resistance in WWII - but no, they are the villagers who watched the trains go by, ignored the clouds of soot & smoke, and joined the Party to get the good jobs. They are complicit.

Age (and appearance) seems to be a favourite put-down among the woke brigade. I have been called 'old white man' as if that would disqualify me from the debate. And as a one-word put-down: 'bald!' All this reminds me of playground exchanges.

This is calling to mind the incel goal of women being assigned to them because everyone (*man) should be entitled to a wife to provide sexual, emotional and domestic servitude. Or the age of consent argument...

A friend at a large women's conference in Portsmouth #F...A2021 describes an intense contribution by a woman talking of rape as a weapon of war in the context of the Tigray atrocities in Ethiopia. Why should anyone protest against this conference? They have a right to, but why?

How are trans oppressed?

There is a collision of rights, there is a competition over spaces, language, influence and resources.

This is why women are protesting. This is why we demand transparency and debate.

This is about men & boys demanding access to women & girls, erasure of sex as a protected characteristic.

Answer the Staniland question Steve.

And I'd be asking why my daughters hated womanhood and their bodies so much they think being a man is a solution?

What has being a parent who impregnates got to do with any of this? You are not affected by inclusive policies or erasure of your language so it costs you nothing to virtue signal and give away the rights of others. I have never said that people are not free to be as GNC

Steve O'Donoghue @SteveODono 12m

You asked me as a father to comment so I did so. I care about people. I don t believe we have to conform to the norms of history. The ills of this world can be overcome with a more accepting society. You are unlikely to alter my views, nor I yours, so let s leave it there.

That's not what this is about Steve what sort of moral authority does it give you to be a parent who impregnates?

This is about men & boys demanding access to women & girls, erasure of sex as a protected characteristic

Following Third Reich law not lawful as determined by the Nuremberg Trials. Relying on the excuse of “just following the law” or “just doing my job” does not hold when laws clearly contravene fundamental human rights principles - such as the right not to be harmed.

What makes you "non-binary"? What is "binary" you are opting out of? How do you determine which category of the binary you belong to in order to opt out? How do others know you are non-binary?

Coiseag @JeamMcOistin 42m
Declaring oneself non-binary signifies that you subscribe to a particular idea of what constitutes 'man gender' and 'woman gender' that is not broad enough to encompass oneself. To anyone who don't subscribe to the same conception of what those genders are it has little meaning

Coiseag @JeamMcOistin 18m
For those whose sense of self is dependant on a particular idea of what 'man gender' and 'woman gender' are the rejection of that conception, or of the very notion of gender, means that others simply cannot see you as you see yourself

Coiseag @JeamMcOistin 10m
It is easy to take this as a personal rejection, rather than a rejection of the concepts to which one subscribes

But when we say "woman" we are not referring to "persons", we are referring to a discrete, objectively observable type of person - that so distinctive they even have a special word so everyone knows what we are talking about. Having a special declared identity doesn't change that

So people who aren't women have to find themselves in the word "woman" but you, a woman, can't find yourself in the word "person"?

Katyjean (She/Your Grace) @ActuaKatyjean 2h

Not when the topic is pregnancy, no.

Pregnancy affects Women and girls (females).

No other people

When I talk about autism, I talk about autistics

No other people

To distinguish the people I mean to talk about from all people, I use the word

legally not a pyramid scheme @pinkpolitic 1h

Pregnancy does affect non-woman WTF Transmen & many other people with/without genders can get pregnant & be affected by pregnancy

That's why it makes more sense when you are generally talking about people who are pregnant to stay pregnant people

Or we could just save the characters and say "woman" - then everyone knows what we are all talking about.

nope, I'm a non-binary person and I could get pregnant, as well as trans men and others in the trans spectrum

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 2h

What makes you "non-binary"? What is "binary" you are opting out of? How do you determine which category of the binary you belong to in order to opt out? How do others know you are non-binary?

Coiseag @JeamMcOistin 47m

Declaring oneself non-binary signifies that you subscribe to a particular idea of what constitutes 'man gender' and 'woman gender' that is not broad enough to encompass oneself To anyone who don't subscribe to the same conception of what those genders are it has little meaning

Coiseag @JeamMcOistin 24m

For those whose sense of self is dependant on a particular idea of what 'man gender' and 'woman gender' are the rejection of that conception, or of the very notion of gender, means that others simply cannot see you as you see yourself

Coiseag @JeamMcOistin 16m

It is easy to take this as a personal rejection, rather than a rejection of the concepts to which one subscribes

Gender affirming care doesn't "encourage" kids to be trans

It creates a safe non-directive space where they can explore their gender identity, no matter how it evolves (cis, trans, etc)

The idea of "pushing kids to be #trans" is a political talking point, not a clinical reality

That is called watchful waiting

Candice Jackson @CEJacksonLaw 3h
Ha, exactly. This is either backpedaling, or gaslighting, now that "gender medicine" is under well deserved scrutiny (finally). A safe space to "explore gender" (whatever gender even means) would of course not involve medicalization, but doesn't he also say kids will die w/o it??

Dutch Dykes @DutchDykes 3h
About 30% of Dutch GD kids go on blockers. Turban is not to be trusted. I think it is a combo of backpedaling and gasligthing. Be very aware. Which you are :)

Very aware. I would move my kids out of the country to a desert somewhere before turning them over to a "safe place to explore gender."

So Australia, why are we upholding the right of people to purchase sex using taxpayer funds? And don't think we don't notice the insidious tactic of using a disabled woman as the respondent to whitewash the fact it is overwhelmingly men who purchase sex.

theguardian.com/australia-news …

Dr EM @PankhurstEM

Hello @HeadwayUK, according to the Court of Appeal ruling today, carers are NOT permitted to facilitate the purchase of prostituted women for disabled men. Your policy is thus against the law, will you withdraw it now?

Yes, the first civil litigation case in Australia concerned a young married couple who were transported here as convicts. There was a drive by the public to gather items for the bridal chest. Ship's captain stole & sold the items en route. The couple brought a civil claim & won.

Decision was upheld because Governor Phillip in charge of settling the convict colony was tasked to uphold the Rule of Law and separation of state. It was not perfect by any means, but the seeds for a functional representative were there.

Thought for today Trans rights, gay rights, women's rights & men s rights are ALL human rights. All equal. None higher than the other Can we stop sledging each other and work to a posit on where these rights can happily co-exist? It would make Twitter a happier place, at least.

Because they are male. A special self-declared identity does not erase that. This is nothing more than plain old-fashioned misogyny and colonisation. All Levine has done of note is declare "trans", Biden & Co. falling over themselves to elevate them on a pedestal. Embarrassing.

A great many LGB people find "queer" horribly offensive. A terrible slur used against them when they were actually assaulted, marginalised and discriminated against. When you use it, you really have no idea of the harm you cause by triggering them of awful memories.

So if it's a gender and NOT a sexual orientation then why is it glomming onto LGB?

What does "gender" mean? "What IS "genderqueer"? Please explain. Circular reasoning is not an answer by the way.

As well as confirming that nothing short of complete submission will assuage the gender inquisition, the Atwood debacle shows us that many of our most admired cultural figures are not as bright as we assume.

Bea Jaspert @hogotheforsaken 19h
In all fairness she's 81. The gender identity lobby pushes an extremely devious, sly piece of covert propaganda that it's leftwing/progressive (and even "feminist") to be "trans inclusive". Easy to miss the truth. Lots of clever people I know, of all ages, remain taken in.

I would like to agree but dunno. The clever (as opposed to facile or erudite) people I know keep asking questions when the trans narrative appears to smack up against material reality. As you did and I did.

No such thing as "cis", women are women not a subset of our own sex.

A man harassing another man for not performing sex based stereotypes is not "misogyny", it's mean, unacceptable and possibly unlawful, but not misogyny.

The key is in the "gyn" which does not apply to males.

A man harassing another man for not performing sex based stereotypes is not "misogyny", it's mean, unacceptable and possibly unlawful, but not misogyny.

The key is in the "gyn" which does not apply to males.

Very bold of you, by the way, to tell me cis people don't exist in a thread where I, a cis man, have been repeatedly told by the homophobes you are choosing to side with that I am not a gay man but am, in fact, a straight woman.

Stop erasing cis gay men.

Cis does not exist as a category for women. Women are not a category made up of women and men who want to be them. It's a manufactured concept forced on women who reject it. So no, it's not a category in law or reality or anywhere outside of gender studies departments.

Hilarious that terfs think they are moderates.

I'm enjoying watching the far-right and their friends dig deeper holes for themselves, it's like reading the comments of racists during the civil rights era who tried to justify how segregation and Jim Crow wasn't actually racist.

Women who reject gender identity ideology come from all across the political spectrum and socio-economic classes, as do the men. Reality and truth will win, and history will look on this time as the great gender brain fart of the early 21st C.

I learnt the hard way by trusting those 'experts' who told me I was a faulty parent, me tho due to being a troubled woman who found herself pregnant.

A review of 'Trans' by Helen Joyce. This is a book about gender by a little known writer who does not work on gender and who is proud of not reading one of the most influential gender scholars of our times. This is evidenced with clarity in each and every sentence. Don't buy it.

I was one of the women interviewed for this article. You can choose not to believe my "anecdotal evidence" but myself and two other lesbians were a… assaulted by the same transwoman at university, and we were targeted BECAUSE we were lesbians.

That is a problem, I'd say

Yes, that is a problem. There are rapey creeps in our community unfortunately I just don't think it's going to help us to address it with the sex & gender conservative mainstream peering in from outside & using that to pursue an anti LGBTQ agenda, picking off trans women first

What "community"? I'm still perplexed as to how sheltered, autistic daughters spending too much time on Tumblr are even remotely in the same category as felons who rape and murder little girls and game the system to be in the women's estate?

Literally nobody is saying that being trans makes you abusive/a rapist/violent. Of course not. But we know (beyond any doubt) that males are much more likely to commit violence or sexual crimes. Why do we think that doesn't apply when the males identify as female?

The preening of the male with a trans identity about his figure and appearance was bizarre - almost as if womanhood is a competitive performance, not a state of being for females.

For prostitution to be considered 'just like any other job' it would also need to be able to conform to requirements as imposed across the board on all occupations. But it doesn't and it cannot.

Let's start with occupational health and safety regulations. The types of biological matter encountered by sex 'workers' in their 'work' range from semen to blood, urine, sweat, saliva, vomit and feces. Under existing OH&S standards for exposure to workplace biological hazards workers would need to be kitted up with various safety gear. Not just condoms. Ranging from latex gloves to gowns, aprons, protective clothing, masks and eye protection devices, such as goggles or glasses with side shields, or chin-length face shields, or similar outer garments. you asked why so i'll address that first, sex is important to be educated about as there are many issues that come with adulthood where you have not been educated about sex (see planned parenthood, abortions, sexually transmitted infections, the meaningfulness of consent) etc

Why do the children need to know anything about the adult volunteers sexuality or lack of? 🚩

FA Fanackapan 💙 @fafanackapan 27m

How would the children know? The tweet does not say it's being discussed with the children. Volunteers don't usually disclose their sexuality so I don't think leaders would know, and even if they knew why would they mention it to the children? Children are not on Twitter

Christinestrawberryvulvaowner 💙 @anointedpoet101 17m

Right. So why are GG promoting it?

Aren't they just being inclusive to their volunteers? If one of their volunteers who is asexual sees that tweet and feels acknowledged and accepted, is that not a good thing? We all talk about mental health and being kind? Surely this is exactly that.

No, this is grooming and goes against fundamental safeguarding principles. It is bizarre and inappropriate to "celebrate" a Guide leader's sexuality, particularly one manufactured woke ideology. An adult's sexuality has no place whatsoever in an organisation that centres girls.

They've changed the policy to allow men and boys to join as Guides and leaders. Parents aren't to know, these males have every right to share facilities and sleeping quarters. If you complain, it's your daughter excluded. All the menz need to do is declare a special identity.

One thing in particular (despite the assault on our rights currently) is how lucky they are to born free in Australia, as so many other little girls do not have the rights they do, and it's very important to protect and defend them, and fight for those who are not so lucky.

"pretty damn binary". Holy shit. That's not how binary works. Either something is binary or it isn't. It can't just be mostly binary. That's called bimodal. If you wanna say bimodal just say bimodal. There is no way he believes it's actually binary.

But sex is binary How that works out in human bodies is our being sexually dimorphic No?

Dr. Jane Clare Jones @aneclare_ones 27m

I think the problem with the concept is that it refers to an absolute contradiction which allows no possible ndeterminacy between, and so, t enables them to say 'oh look there is a tiny number of ndeterminacies therefore it s not binary therefore .t s a spectrum bulshit

I survived conversion therapy from 13 to 17 years old. Persistent humiliation through prayer and deeply inappropriate questioning with disdain for safeguarding. Weekly 1to1 meetings where ex-gay was pushed. Reached out a year ago to forgive by email and hold no anger /1

In QLD in 2020, they passed Conversion Therapy legislation that redefined same sex orientation as same GENDER attraction to another person (erasing homosexuality in the process), that only applies to health care providers, not the Church, even though we already have

Some of it s qu te persona (egos). or ideogical/principled ('transphobia' vs a certain tolerance). I try to keep out of it and keep qu t. but none of the conflicts seem to make a common goal unatta nable. I think of it as noise, but it looks orchestrated to me

My observation is that infighting is a feature, and not a bug, of activism. Big personalities, big opinions and people at different stages of the process. You have to figure out what your personal values are, where you will/will not compromise and steer the course.

Human rights are not sex based rights

Human rights accuse to all Women's rights accrue to women only

They exist because without them, women's human rights would be hurt, due to sex based differences.

For example, we get pregnancy/ employment protections, W sports.

There is an entire UN Convention called CEDAW, ratified by over 189 countries, that the US has not signed. If it was signed, implemented and (most crucially) upheld, we would not being having this problem.

Sadly I disagree. US has plenty of laws upholding women's equality and expressly granting protections based on sex. All of them are simply being reinterpreted to add or mean "gender identity" (which overrides sex). CEDAW wouldn't be saving women now any more than the ERA would

We have CEDAW enshrined in federal law in Australia. It's a beautiful piece of legislation. But the key factor is that it is NOT upheld. No use having legislation that no one upholds. Gender identity id also in law, which is unconstitutional in my opinion and that of others.

Why does this man with he/him in his bio, upon reading that lesbians are being sexually coerced & abused by self ID'd trans women, "fiercely rail against" the article "on a personal level"?

David Levesley @DJFLevesley · 1d

I'm sure lots of people received their responses today from the BBC's complaints team about that deeply anti-trans piece. While I fiercely rail against what the piece said on a personal level, there are some basic journalistic points that I feel this response glosses over.

Women's rights campaigners are right to insist on women's safety. I share their concerns but disagree that this requires the exclusion of trans women. Many women's centres accept trans women without a problem. They vet ALL women users & exclude only those who are a danger

Even a very basic search will reveal that in many jurisdiction, women's shelter are legally obligated to accept trans, not willing participants. In addition there are many examples of women already traumatised by men, told to leave if they complain. We have much to learn.

Yes I am acutely aware of that. In the UK however, there is no legal obligation. Women have the lawful right to exclude men, but Stonewall law impressed upon people that it was (erroneously) unlawful Fascinating forensic analysis on the authoritarianism of Australia - glad to be descended from convicts and free settlers, not the prison guards! Victoria is also known as Woketoria or Danistan - the most punitive laws regarding gender identity originated there.

Dishonest reckless reporting. What sort of message does this send to little girls and young women? A disgusting betrayal of female surfers. There is nothing groundbreaking about this, just a loophole being exploited by a male and misogyny rebranded

There's something in the legislation about taking individual people out of state to avoid the law/penalties. There doesn't seem to be any penalty for speaking about the topic generally, or to an individual, on a platform. It's not about a known individual Victorian. We'll see.

A decision was just handed down at ACAT where a female journalist was held accountable for comments made by others on a post she made about a male who declares a trans identity. I have little doubt they won't try to stretch the pending VIC legislation to the extreme.

And prostitution has nothing to do with "sexuality", it is the industrialised exploitation for commercial profit of the bodies of children and women for male sexual gratification. It is abhorrent you would even conflate that with a normal, healthy, fulfilling sex life.

"for male sexual gratification" right, so sexua.ity then

Stop bringing children up everyone agrees childrens involvement in any of this is morally repugnant so they are not relevant to debate Youre constantly referring to children to muddy the discussion and point score

No. That is not "sexuality". It's exploitation and power, There is a power differential and the paying male customer has the power and control. Any conversation about prostitution involves children - average age for bring prostituted is THIRTEEN. That is a child.

You're right we should use the legal system to deal with those who exploit/abuse/rape/kill but there's no reason this can't be done alongside decriminalising sex workers and their clients. You just object to this because of your own personal ideas about human sexuality.

If you bothered to read what I wrote you'd see I clearly stated sex workers and their clients should be decriminalised & e sex work should be wholly legal where there is no coercion, trafficking or exploitation taking place

"Clients". A lawyer has clients, prostituted women and children do not, they do not have a choice, nor any sort of protection, they have men paying to use and abuse their bodies. While human beings are sold there will always be coercion, trafficking and exploitation.

people into heterosexuals is wrong. equally so is conversion therapy to turn trans people into gay and lesbian people.

6 1 54

WTFoucault @WTFoucault 7h

Waiting till a child can consent to permanent and life-changing interventions is not conversion therapy. It is the only ethical position

3 1 61

(((Frances Meta Coppola))) @Frances_Coppola 7h

I did not say anything about permanent and life-changing interventions. I am discussing therapy intended to change someone's perception of themselves as transsexual. That meets the definition of conversion therapy

6 19

WTFoucault @WTFoucault 7h

Frances, gender ideologists are positioning all but an immediate affirmative statement that the child is a girl (if a 'feminine' boy) or a boy ('masculine' girl) as conversion therapy. Their definition outlaws watchful waiting, a foundational principle of psychotherapy.

1 1 40

(((Frances Meta Coppola))) @Frances_Coppola 7h

I am not interested in your "gender ideology" scaremongering. My concern is how to support ppl who for whatever reason perceive themselves as a different sex from their birth sex. Telling them they must have therapy to change their perception of themselves strikes me as abusive

Must tailor each sport to performance that is relevant. So if someone declares they are a woman it's based on their performance? A muddled logic here.

Still haven't mentioned "women" and we are 17 minutes in. Claiming a large consultation process with many parties. Access to sport must be equal and accessible - here we are first mention of WOMEN!

Testosterone advantage is not one factor, can be unreliable or irrelevant. Safety important in combat and contact sports. Harm to athletes is important - cannot force a athlete into a medically unnecessary procedure that may cause physical or mental harm.

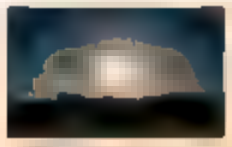
Joanna Harper hits it on the head here. The idea that we need robust, peer-reviewed research to determine transgender women who have not reduced their T have an advantage is ludicrous. Is the entire history of competitive sports not enough evidence? twitter.com/search?q=single stat



What does the new transgender guidance mean for sports in UK?

Read more

"It is important that the IOC has come out in favour of inclusion of trans and intersex athletes, but I think sections five and six of the framework are problematic," said Harper, who is a trans woman and a competitive athlete herself. "Transgender women are on average, taller, bigger and stronger than cis women and these are advantages in many sports. It is also unreasonable to ask the sports federations to have robust and peer reviewed research before placing restrictions on trans athletes in elite sport. Such research will take years if not decades."

A massive abnegation of responsibility by IOC. Three years of consulting, but it's too hard and it's evolving and it's a process so let's punt it to the IFs.

Leaving the rules up to sports governing bodies leaves it open for transphobic individuals and pressure groups to lobby for the exclusion of trans people from being represented in sports and society at large. This is unacceptable. Trans people are human, sports is a human right.

It's not an unlimited human right - you do not have the right to compete in any category of your choice, you do not have the right to participate in any category based on subject feelings, you do not have the right to compete in a category from which you are objectively excluded.

And I heard echoes of the words of a certain TRA in the IOC answers, a person who has conducted themselves publicly in a thoroughly unprofessional manner, who has been openly disparaging and contemptuous towards women who disagree with him. That person was clearly consulted.

What about the human rights of women? Demanding to be included in a category from which you are excluded is not a "human right", it is entitlement.

And what about the women and girls who are excluded, who have nowhere else to go? This policy does nothing more than privilege and prioritise the demands of men who offensively assert declaring a “female gender identity” is the equivalent of being a biological female.

We need to have a serious discussion about withdrawing our female athletes from the Olympics if this foolish, extreme, and unjust policy is allowed to stand.

America has invested too much in the development of our female athletes to submit them to this.

In this speech, @SenatorKeogan exposed the government in its blatant disregard for women and children. No risk assessment. No impact assessment. A minister for children who does not grasp that the premise of safeguarding IS worst case scenario.

Ignorance of safeguarding from a minister for children laced with anger completely out of synch with the measured tone of the Senator
All the usual tropes and playbook of false accusations, the usual dog whistle which was completely unwarranted and lastly a total lack of engagement with the actual issues raised. This is not hyperbole. In Canada and the US sex offenders are using this same law to access female spaces. We will not allow this to happen here

Thank you @SenatorKeogan. We salute your compassion and courage.

"I literally bribed him with money."

This isn't a mother who cares about her child

My son got his 2nd blocker yesterday! YAY!
It was going great until the doctor came in to perform the procedure. The doctor was amazing, by the way!
My son freaked out after the numbing cream, and after the numbing medicine was put in with the needle. He got so scared he refused to have the procedure. Luckily, Children's Hospital provided a child specialist to stay with us during the whole procedure. Her job was to calm him, and distract him.
It took over an hour of negotiation before he let the doctor continue. I literally bribed him with money! It was the most stressful hour+! I was so scared he wasn't going to go through with it, and I just kept thinking of the consequences if he didn't! The medicine cost $43,000, plus the cost of the insertion packet. The medicine only last a few days, once prepared to insert. So, coming back to put him to sleep for the procedure would be unlikely
Not sure the insurance would approve it again.
I was so proud of him that he went through with it, and can not believe how brave he is! The whole way home is was crying because he was releasing his stress. He kept saying

It says 4 for Australia, I know of 3 murders of males with trans identities with two engaged in prostitution and one was a domestic violence homicide. They were all horrible, brutal murders and the male perpetrators are all currently behind bars.

I am utterly horrified that surgery is being promoted as a solution for psychological distress. Why are we not supporting these people to accept their bodies just as they are? These surgeries are brutal and irreversible. There will be extraordinary levels of regret.

I'm not sure making surgical mutilation more accessible, let alone government funded, is a good idea. In ten years the class actions will bankrupt hospitals and surgeons. The middle aged men who are driving this, will make their entitlement felt when their health fails them.

I'm not sure making surgical mutilation more accessible, let alone government funded, is a good idea. In ten years the class actions will bankrupt hospitals and surgeons. The middle-aged men who are driving this, will make their entitlement felt when their health fails them.

Cate was shunned and banished by the trans community for quite publicly changing their mind that males should not play in female sports. Cate's story is quite fascinating about the behind-the-scenes machinations of the Australian trans agenda.

Cat calling apart, walk a few yards behind school girls on any street at school leaving time and watch the faces of passing male motorists
Even having similar aged daughters isn't a deterrent for male lust.

I first witnessed this when walking behind my then 12 yo daughter

In fact I'll add an extra detail because it's funny I suggested a voice/video debate because a female user was asking to debate Joss and Joss insisted that they prove they're really a woman first. I said that a video debate would help to prove this

SEX not “gender identity” or “gender” on identity documents. Humans cannot change sex, changing sex markers is a legal fiction. There are serious consequences for women & girls when men can access spaces where they are vulnerable. These policies are misogynistic to their core.

If you're content to let the term "right" be used in the vernacular sense of a justified expectation, possibly. To me, it's important we distinguish political rights from more basic law. Lest we lose track of what they are, and how they're upheld, as we clearly are, here

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 14h

I agree, but in jurisprudence and human rights that is the most basic, fundamental right in natural law which is foundational (in my view).

We don't disagree on that. When we ask "which rights are being removed?" and the answer is "my right not to be murdered" the respondent is not fearing change to natural law they're swapping the sense in the question of rights as specific freedoms with hyperbolic gibberish

Actually, the right not to be killed, or harmed, is the fundamental principle for universal human rights. Manufacturing victimhood and erroneously blaming an innocent group, however, should always be roundly rejected

Adhib the SDP @adhib · 21h

If you're content to let the term "right" be used in the vernacular sense of a justified expectation, possibly. To me, it's important we distinguish political rights from more basic law. Lest we lose track of what they are, and how they're upheld, as we clearly are, here

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves · 20h

I agree, but in jurisprudence and human rights - that's the most basic, fundamental right in natural law, which is foundational (in my view).

Adhib the SDP @adhib · 20h

We don't disagree on that. When we ask "which rights are being removed?" and the answer is "my right not to be murdered" - the respondent is not fearing change to natural law - they're swapping the sense in the question - of rights as specific freedoms - with hyperbolic gibberish

They are not female. They have XY chromosomes, testes, male level testosterone and body receptive to androgens. How they were "assigned at birth" or "identify as" has no bearing on their male biological sex. Read the Semenya CAS decision, it's exp ained there in detail

They are not female. They have XY chromosomes, testes, male level testosterone and body receptive to androgens. How they were "assigned at birth" or "identify as" has no bearing on their male biological sex. Read the Semenya CAS decision, it's explained there in detail.

They have the same condition as Caster. They have testes and male level testosterone. Only a person with XY chromosomes has testes. And it is quite clear their bodies are androgenised, they do not have a female physique.

Three transwomen sweep the 800m in the Olympics.

They were later banned from some Olympic events for excessive testosterone levels.

I read somewhere that God made trans people for the same reason they made wheat but not bread and grapes but not wine. "So that humanity might share in the act of creation." They called it "the divine alchemy of the self." I think it's a beautiful perspective.

Dr Wahs said she believed there should be single sex prisons and single sex rape shelters as well as prisons and rape shelters that cater for trans people.

"We shouldn't pretend that hormones can change sex," she added.

The bureaucrats are craven. The women aren't suing because to do so would bring down a hailstorm of abuse on their on their own campus and from all around the world. They could never afford the legal costs and would struggle to find a firm who would do it for no fee if they lost.

I disagree. I think there would be widespread support for such a case. There are also alternative avenues to funding (crowdfund, litigation funding incl. bearing costs, pro-Bono public interest firms). There is a network of lawyers willing to act. This would be a precedent.

Thankfully there are fairly reliable proxies But people with genitalia of one sex shouldn't pretend to be the other, even when those proxies are unreliable @katherine_deves

This is a game of wilful pretend. Even infants can tell the difference - it's the 6000+ biological differences, 3000 of which are observable, that give it away at a glance (so why the obsessive focus on genitals?)

No males in female sports. It's really very simple. Declaring a special identity does not mitigate a male's performance advantage. They are making demands, and we say NO.

Since when is suing for your rights a "right wing" thing, or "immoral"? Good grief.

Even if I accept that, what's your point? You think men will invade women's spaces and rape them, and that proponents of trans rights think rape is ok? Rape is rape, on that we can surely agree

My point is th s cis men are a proven threat to females in vu nerable situations Gender identity s not an objective measure by which cis men can be differentiated from trans women. So women only spaces must be based on biologica sex. which s objective. like it always was Very interconnected. When men makes demands on women, women lose. And seeing as pregnant women are pregnant "people" in relation to abortion rights in my jurisdiction, how do we now know who is being affected under the law?

I am aware of dozens of cases where the mother a "safe parent" has had to hand their children over to an abusive, even paedophilic male, because he alleges PA (kids resist going to him b/c he is abusive towards mother and/or them). Mothers lose all, or most, parental rights.

Hello Chris,

For format, I think it is fair that you be the host, so I will ultimately oblige with what works best for you to the best of my ability. Topic, we disagree on such a fundamental level that arguing particulars like legislation per country would be difficult to make any headway, I suggest then it should be broadly: the validity of transpeople. In my eyes, a transwoman and woman are equivocal, and that to try to qualify them differently will lead to nonsensical definitions of an essential characteristic. I would be surprised if you continued past this point to be honest but I am suddenly optimistic.

I very much do. Obviously a person cannot vilify or victimise, and this ruling explains what that means in the context of speaking on "transgender" issues. That a male with a trans identity (aka "transwoman") can also be referred to as a man, is a huge win.

Girls go to the toilet more frequently, for more reasons, have more complicated clothing to remove and take longer to go. The need for toilet cubicles takes far more space than a row of urinals. For true equality females actually need more provision than males. Not less.

Yeah, I was kinda working on that logic. But I guess you'll never know

To me I was thinking more the 'third space' argument. Have exclusive single sex options and then all in/mixed/non binary categories. Rather than the logistics/funding aspect.

NZ unmoors itself from reality. Sex is now longer based on material, observable reality.

Now it is feelings in a porn-addled man's head, a confused teenage girl seeking refuge from womanhood or a child brainwashed to believe being the opposite sex will solve their problems.

We are yet to see what sports women would develop if they were given free reign

In case you ve forgotten. sports began as recreational war games

How far can you throw that spear? Who can swim the river the fastest? How quickly can a messenger run to the front line?

Again. we have no idea what sports women would develop if they were given the chance.

What a disgusting mischaracterisation by NZ Parliamentarians of all the thoughtful, passionate, articulate arguments presented as against this smug, foolhardy and injudicious bill. Their wilful inability to acknowledge the inherent misogyny and the danger to children it presents.

Access to hormones & surgery without any "distress" is an "important new element" of the 11th International Classification of Diseases, according to lobbies for "gender affirming" clinicians unhappy over a shift to caution by Australian/NZ psychiatry 1/

pathA.nz News, 12173008

> Gender incongruence is a sexual health related diagnostic code from the 11th edition of the International Classification of Diseases, of which an important new element is that distress does not have to be present for patients to gain access to medical gender affirmation. Conflating the experience and diagnosis of gender dysphoria, which are two different phenomena, with sexual health ICD coding is not appropriate, conflating both of these with the trans experience in totality is harmful. It's important to understand that the trans experience, and the processes of gender affirmation, are very different

Absolutely this, in any other context, particularly for law, if you make an assertion the onus is on you to prove it, not on the other side to disprove it. The burden of proof has been wrongfully (morally, ethically and arguably legally) placed on women and sports organisations.

It's very interesting how it always appears to be male sports bureaucrats that are so eagerly willing to include men in women's sports. And "evolved" is not really the word I would use for Budgett's views, more like devolved to ideological dogmatism and sycophancy.

Actually Seth, it's not. I have personally been contacted by a woman who had to refer to her rapist as "she", a man who killed many women, and this was the THIRD TIME she had to testify against him. So stay in your lane mate, this thread is an appalling example of rape apologia.

Seth thinks it's okay for a "handful" of women to be raped and gaslit into referring to their male rapists as "she" if the rapist says they are a woman. Acceptable collateral damage in protecting the Church of Trans. Sound familiar?

Bostock? Thank you, but was a USSC decision that narrowly concerned discrimination in the workplace on the basis of same sex orientation or "gender identity". Not jury, and didn't "decide" someone's sex. Of course, the TQ are relying on it to justify a whole of unrelated demands.

Where's the actual polling? Who did it? What was sample size, methodology etc?

Cassandra M Day @MDayCassandra 13h
It was 8 transwomen, based on personal testimony and experience just like the one that changed IOC rules back in 2015 was.

Only I bet this was a bigger number of participants and not self-selection.

Callum @callum6052 13h
75% of 8 transwomen? Huh? Your tweet didn't answer my question. Any links? Why wouldn't the article link to the polling? Pretty sus I reckon.

The IOC changed rules on TW participation in women's sports based on study of 8 self selected TW with no control run by a TW athlete with vested interest in the results Study took place over several years but no control to show expected reduction in performance due to ageing

Let me be crystal clear: no part of the TERF position on this has anything to do with protecting women. It has to do with erasing the existence of trans people. Women are being used as rhetorical human shields by misogynistic bigots and it's f backward and embarrassing.

Common sense prevails in UK.

Pity the Australian High Court fell for the nonsense that a person's sex can be "non-specific" in NSW Registrar of Births, Deaths & Marriages v Norrie back in 2014, even though humans are all either male or female.

It's an interesting thread to read through as a bloke

You wonder about the way society s arranged

What Paglia referred to as a "right to be [harassed]" isn't work ng, but cloistering doesn't either

So where are we? This needs real thought, understanding nature

I agree. It takes thoughtful, intelligent people engaging in robust discourse, & credible research to work such complex, nuanced problems out. Instead, we have Twitter. orthodoxy of thought under penalty of sanction in academia and politicians in thrall to identity extremists.

I 100% agree Katherine. If male size, strength or speed gives an advantage in a particular sport then it must stay single sex no exceptions Where it doesn t (as n some equestrian events for example) then the sport shou d be m xed sex. Gender identity is totally irrelevant.

Bodies play sports, not identities. Women are not a hormone level, & a castrated male is still a male. It is not women's place to sacrifice ourselves & other women & girls to keep those males happy or to ensure they feel safe & included. It's a men problem, they need to sort it.

There is nothing fair about men and boys in women's sports under any circumstances. They have demanded and demanded. we must hold the line at complete exclusion. Why can we not say an unequivocal NO to men on the playing field, court or team?

Thank you, Katherine! Maybe they'll listen to you To let any in will spell the end of women's sports! And the trans activists won't be satisfied anyway. That s what happened last time Martina, Nancy Hogshead-Makar, and another woman from Duke made a plan including males.

They will never stop making demands. They have demonstrated this time and time again. It's a failure of imagination, wilful ignorance, stupidity or misogyny of our leaders, authorities and bureaucrats that they cannot see what the end game is here.

You have removed the question mark at the end and the mention of Maya Forstater Why have you done that?

She is questioning whether women should be sacked for claiming that sex is real.

How is that an unreasonable position?

How is that her saying you are not to exist?

Families being homophobic is not "conversion therapy". There is no evidence of it happening in therapeutic settings in UKAus. etc, there are laws to prevent such professional misconduct. It's a Trojan horse to protect those who want to transition other people's children.

The reason women have separate bathrooms to men is because we had to fight for their provision. Have you not heard of urinary leash? Pretending that sex and sexed bodies, or male violence against women and children, don't exist does not make sexism go away.

I have often wondered the same, Kath.!
Common story:
Late 19th Century the gov 🇨🇦 enticed people to settle out west by offering parcels of farm land (free!).
Settlers would arrive in Fall and dig a cave on their land for their first winter 🥶
No time to build a house til spring.

Background

In 1871, an order-in-council initiated a uniform land survey of the three Prairie Provinces as well as the railway belt of British Columbia. The land had to be accurately described and located through cadastral surveys before Letters Patent could be issued to a homesteader.

- The Dominion Lands Act required that each homesteader provide proof that the land had increased in value through additions (cultivation, building construction, etc.) costing labour and/or capital. The Dominion Lands Act stipulated the improvements that had to Surrogacy is reproductive prostitution. It is egregious exploitation of women, both the woman from the egg is "harvested" and the pregnant woman who gives birth to the baby. Breaking the mother-baby dyad is a catastrophic disruption to normal human reproduction and relationship.

All girls schools must remain single sex, in NSW you can exclude students in the basis of sex if it is a single sex school. I benefitted from an all girls high school and my daughters will be doing the same.

Oh hey fellow Scotlander! I've been very, very impressed with Claire Chandler, the senator for Tasmania.

Sir Terfy Hex Esq. @CaptainVirg x 2h

She's the one saying lesbians have the right to lesbian only spaces, right?

Thought so. There was a big issue in TAS whereby a lesbian club was forced to take in trans women.

Had parents, detrans, dedicated media and other concerned groups not taken great risks to expose the harms of these medical interventions and bring them to the attention of the public and the authorities, I wonder if clinicians such as Dr Anderson would be speaking up at all?

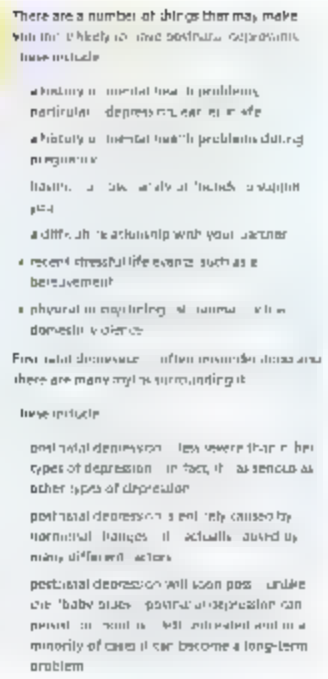
Get the latest advice about COVID-19



There are a number of things that may make you more likely to have postnatal depression, these include:

- a history of mental health problems, particularly depression, earlier in life
- a history of mental health problems during pregnancy
- having a baby at a young age, for example, as a teenager
- a difficult relationship with your partner
- a recent stressful life event, such as a bereavement
- physical or psychological trauma, such as domestic violence

Postnatal depression often misunderstood and there are many myths surrounding it.

These include:

- postnatal depression is less severe than other types of depression – in fact, it is as serious as other types of depression
- postnatal depression is usually caused by hormonal changes – it actually has a number of many different causes
- postnatal depression will soon pass – unlike the 'baby blues', postnatal depression can persist for months if it is left untreated and in a minority of cases it can become a long-term problem

‹ Postnatal depression

Overview - Postnatal depression

Postnatal depression is a type of depression that many parents experience after having a baby.

It's a common problem, affecting more than 1 in every 10 women within a year of giving birth. It can also affect fathers and partners.

I had PND with both my pregnancies, it is related to hormonal levels, experience of being pregnant, giving birth, breastfeeding (or not), and adjusting to caring for newborns. While men can also experience depression or adjustment disorders upon becoming fathers, it is not PND.

Here is similar information to the screenshots above but from a different source:

> New fathers can experience postpartum depression, too. They may feel sad or fatigued, be overwhelmed, experience anxiety, or have changes in their usual eating and sleeping patterns — the same symptoms mothers with postpartum depression experience.
> Fathers who are young, have a history of depression, experience relationship problems or are struggling financially are most at risk of postpartum depression. Postpartum depression in fathers — sometimes called paternal postpartum depression — can have the same negative effect on partner relationships and child development as postpartum depression in mothers can.
> If you're a new father and are experiencing symptoms of depression or anxiety during your partner's pregnancy or in the first year after your child's birth, talk to your health care professional.

Well as a guy I'm going to weigh in with, the reason most blokes get a bit fed up when a baby is born is because they are no longer the centre of a woman's world and the baby gets to breastfeed. I.e. stealing them from the man

Sleep deprivation for us was a killer. I would do until about 4am (two wakeful premmie breastfed twins) and he would do 4am until 6am so I could sleep, and then he went to work as a tradie. He suffered depression and adjustment disorder, it was terrible, but not PND.

@Harvard ratioed hard on this misogynistic tweet. When men are allowed to compete against women in the female competition, the only student-athletes being "supported" and "included" are.....males. It is NOT "hate" or "transphobia" to say this, to claim it is, is fearmongering.

Jake Lennon @LakeJennon · 24m

Cis is an old word which literally means "on this side of" in ancient Greek.

It's kind of like how every number above 0 is technically a + number. So 1 is actually +1

You've just had a lifetime of ignoring the + so you see it as an affront.

And why do you think that is? The patriarchy assume? Or is it the fact the more people watch?

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 12m

When you have more airtime, more teams, more games, more media coverage of course more people can watch, there is exponentially more opportunity to watch

MKav @kavverz 7m

Thats because there is more people who want to watch I dont watch womens golf,not because Im a sex st Its because I have a job and child.I have limited amount of time So when watch golf I watch mens golf
Women models get paid more than men Youd argue both should be paid same?

How do I know? Is this a serious question? Well if you look at every premier League ground most of them are full every week. Women s counterparts play in much smaller stadia and still don t fill them
When was the last time a women s AFL game sold out the MCG?

It was a tri meet and so they were all finals But Thomas got the "W" in three races, which is all you need in a dual/tri meet, save one s best for another day It's very possible Thomas was holding back for PR purposes, but other traditional reasons could apply as well

I think it's deliberate. Look at Laurel. Now Lia is to win by a little bit but not by much. Then they put forward the the argument that there isn't a performance advantage. They are pitting mediocre against elite, and using that to support their position.

Well for a start you got everyone's genders wrong, so no wonder you're confused. Secondly, kind of puts paid to the myths about trans people in sports. Maybe what you're really upset about here is that none of your GC theory is true.

I do not believe in gender identity ideology and I recognise sex, not gender. What myths? The problem here is that we have a male and a female who has the benefit of testosterone unfairly taking space in the women's category. Where they place is irrelevant.

Gender identity is an ideology, the term was coined by John Money several decades ago. Believing that you have a special gender essence is akin to a neo-religion.

Gender has been around for millennia. There are many cultures that have had more than two gender identities. And your opinion of whether someone has taken testosterone or not is irrelevant. You have no evidence and are just judging people on their physical appearance.

It's a costly exercise to run as an independent, you'd need serious benefactors and fundraising. Good luck with that to Kirsti. Vascillates between Nationals and Labour stronghold out there, I doubt an Indy would get up.

Horrifying that any woman has to be in a confined space with any of these male predators. That the state has locked vulnerable women in with them, is a human rights scandal. #keepprisonssinglesex

Can anyone tell me where the term bugger-lugs/bugga-lugs originates? And what it meant, please?

I ask because my school teachers happily called us that, despite never otherwise using the word 'bugger'. It must have a different root? Or they were hypocrites! 🤔

61 1 60

HRWales @HRWales1 · 21h

Yeah I've heard that and was called it as a kid in North Wales. It was always an affectionate term used like oh you little tike/rascal/tinker/scamp. Maybe it's a Northern thing?

Jo Clarke @CurlyKing79 · 21h

So far, it appears to have been used affectionately and politely all over England, Scotland and Wales.

But how it differs from 'buggery' I couldn't say.

Definitely "bug-a-lugs" and a term of endearment or affection. No sexual connotation at all. "Hurry up bug-a-lugs" and so on.
I recall as well bug-bare or bugbear being used to describe an irritant. came from the East Midlands and very common there

One of the clear indicators that trans identified men don't know what "living as a woman" really entails is the fact that they massively underestimated what our pushback would be. How strong, how determined, how very bloody resolutely female. We have been at this for centuries.

This is a black and white issue. If there are males with a trans identity who are facing incarceration that might be at risk in prison, the solution is to house them in a protected unit in the male estate. Prisons must be single sex. No compromise.

It is not a black and white issue, I'm afraid. The numbers of trans women are very small, so your "protected unit" would be likely to result in solitary confinement for much of the sentence. Prolonged solitary confinement is torture and therefore outlawed under international law

Nope, it merely informs people how to be polite. I am heartily sick of being called "dude" or spoken about as "he" by people too ignorant to know the significance of the spelling of my name. I welcome the practice of declaring pronouns. It helps people with androgynous names.

Furious Cassandra @Frances_Coppola 7m

Pronouns are a linguistic construct, anyway. They don't denote biological sex and never have. If you were French, you would use the term "elle" about a table. But it doesn't mean a table is biologically female.

The Women and Equalities Select Committee said that trans women with a history of violence or sexual assault against women should not be placed in womens' prisons. I agree with them. Do you?

Had this prohibition been in place at the time Karen White was on remand, she would not have been placed in a women's prison.

Yes they have, there are testimonies of this happening How do you think Karen White happened? Are you really not across this? If you are going to talk publicly on an issue you should at least know the basics of your opposition's evidence.

There aren t dozens of men n women s prisons Most trans women prisoners are in men s prisons.

This s the best data available, because MOJ failed to collect statistics and fail to record those with GRCs. So yes it s dozens. More than enough for a protected unit of their own. committees parliament uk writtenevidenc sigh the MOJ counted 125 female identifying trans prisoners across the WHOLE ESTATE, not just n women s prisons. Most of those prisoners are serving their sentences in men's prisons.

Furious Cassandra @Frances_Coppola 42m

that figure s too low, because as you say t doesn't include trans women with GRCs. and it also doesn't inc ude trans women who haven t had case conferences, which is mainly those serving short sentences for minor offences

Half of all males with trans identities are sex offenders, compared with less than 20% for the rest of male estate. That should tell you something.

The Jenkins Report found a very high percentage of bullying in Commonwealth parliamentary workplaces. My local member, Zali Steggall, condemned the actions of Minister Reynolds and has loudly called for implementation of the Jenkins recommendations.

Still curious about your position on other policies for women, such as increased funding for JobSeeker/single parents greater protections for casual workers, increased hospital funding and better access to childcare Also how you reconcile Evangelical leader's attitude to women

As they say Tea, don't feed the mogwais after midnight, but know I am a woman first and like you, these issues are as real for me as all they are for all women.

I just want reassurances that you are doing this to support all policies that benefit women. It's pretty clear what the Coalition's campaign strategy is. PS I'm not a Mogwai. I'm an adult, qualified to ask this question. Appreciate the answer

My unwavering dedication to the right of women and girls in sport should speak for itself. It is important to have more women in parliament, more women in government - across the political spectrum - so our voices are heard.

@NRL is a high impact, collision sport.

Why are they allowing male players to have a choice to play in the female category?

World Rugby determined an increased 20-30% risk of serious injury to females playing against males.
